A Red None.

This is one of the shrules that in a measure reverses nature. It blossoms in greater perfection in erowited cities than in the green fields where nature usually classed as a modest flavor, for It wears its blushing honors as an en gine does its head-light-in its conspleuous lore-front.

The red nose is a fearful thing to wear. It challenges the admiration of every passer-hy-warning them as a signal of danger to keep off the rocks of deep potations.

In order to color a meerchaum pipe it should be smoked not less than six times a day. To accomplish the same result with the average human nose, the aspirant for this honor should imbibe not less than double this numher of mixed drinks, hall the numher of niekle shooters or the like num her of three-masted schooners of beer per diem. We like to be precise about this, as it is only by strict compliance with instructions that a perfected, even color can be accomplished. The red nose is a sign of courage. Lincoln County Teachers' Institute We are indelted to our faithful friend, ducted by Elder Stephen Collier, Rev. J. A. Boele, for the following report:

The annual session of the Lincoln County Feachers' Institute was opened in this place on Tuesday morning, under the anspices of the energetic and attentive Comm ludge J. M. Philips. Judge P. had seured the valuable services of Prof. T. P. ual School at Carlisle, who was present as conductor of the exercises. The programme embraced full work for three days, and covered nearly all the topics connected with the enigencies of Common School experience. Mrs. Philips was present to lend the aid of music, and thus provided by far the leasantest part of the entertainment. The institute was organized by the election of Am't. COMMONWEALTH OF KENTUCKY, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT. Both were quick-tempered, but Kate (woman like) quick-tongued, too, and possessed a gift of witty and stinging repartee with which Philip found it difficuit to cope; the result of this was to make Kate the victor in their battlee, Philip generally retiring from the field in dudgeon. It was not alone his wite's quick tongue, but far more her wealth—and tongue, but far more her wealth—and
